Dear Tom:

I have become aware that people are occasionally entering the Pt. Pinos lighthouse grounds during non-visitor hours, then using the ruse that they have permission to be there from a member of the museum staff or a lighthouse docent.

In order that you can maintain the necessary security for this facility, we will always have a member of the museum staff or a lighthouse docent accompany anyone or group that has made arrangements with us to visit the lighthouse. We will assume that others have the permission of the Monterey Station.

Sincerely yours,

Vernal L. Yadon
